

December 2017

Dear Parents,

The children were very busy in November creating Native American crafts. We also read folk tales and Thanksgiving stories. Thank you for donating articles for our projects.

December will be busy. We will be reading stories that begin with J and K.

The children love starting library time with a poem and a peek in the mailbox. (This week it was filled with jingle bells).

We will be reading some silly stories about the holidays and many about the real reason we celebrate Christmas. Ask your child to tell you about what we read. We will try to post the titles we read on the board outside the classroom.

Our special art projects will include making Christmas ornaments with lots of glitter (LOL) and wreaths and reindeer. Sometimes these masterpieces need a day or two to dry so they may not always come home the day we make them.

We will check books out the week of December 4th and December 11. Please make sure all books are returned by December 18th. Thank you for returning the books in their bags. It helps keep our books neat, and it is a way to know who has returned their book.

Please stop by our classroom if you have any questions or concerns about things we are doing in library or art.

Merry Christmas to everyone and best wishes for a beautiful holiday season.
